The Rebelaire 1965

West Monroe High School
West Monroe, Louisiana

Various tongues, various clothing, and various lands meet at West Monroe in the language departments.

Instruments are not mastered easily; only hard work and concentration bring good music.

Foreword . . .

Clouds and high school have a common likeness. The four years linger timelessly, but, viewed in retrospect, seem to have suddenly vanished into celestial nothingness.

All that remain of that past are a few gilt-edged memories of Rebeland. These reflections drift across the heavens of our high school years as clouds float across the sky . . . forming various images that exist in individual minds.

Office education brings with its teaching the skill of relating to others. This student practices the art of telephone conversation.

Principal S. R. Braley and Sharon Harrelson share a smile on Homecoming Day.

One dozes, one daydreams. Another listens. Fall classes were hot until early November.

Homecoming day spreads splendor and awe through the heart of West Monroe High School.

Rebelette marching ability perks up a parade in downtown West Monroe.

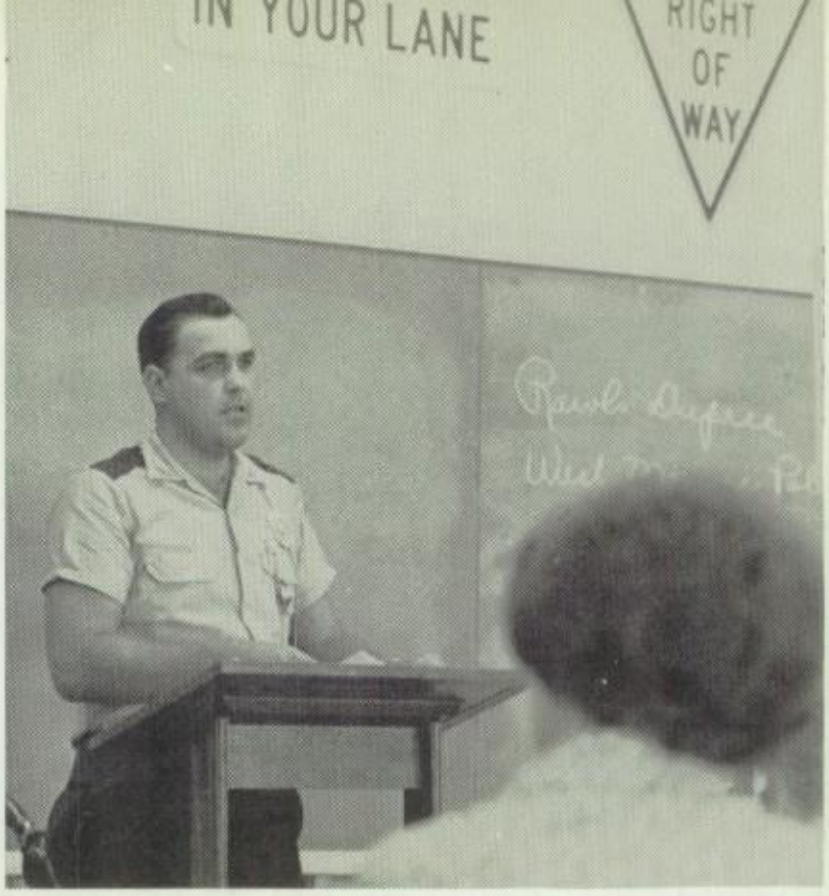
Diligent practice and expert leadership create sonorous sounds from Rebeland band.

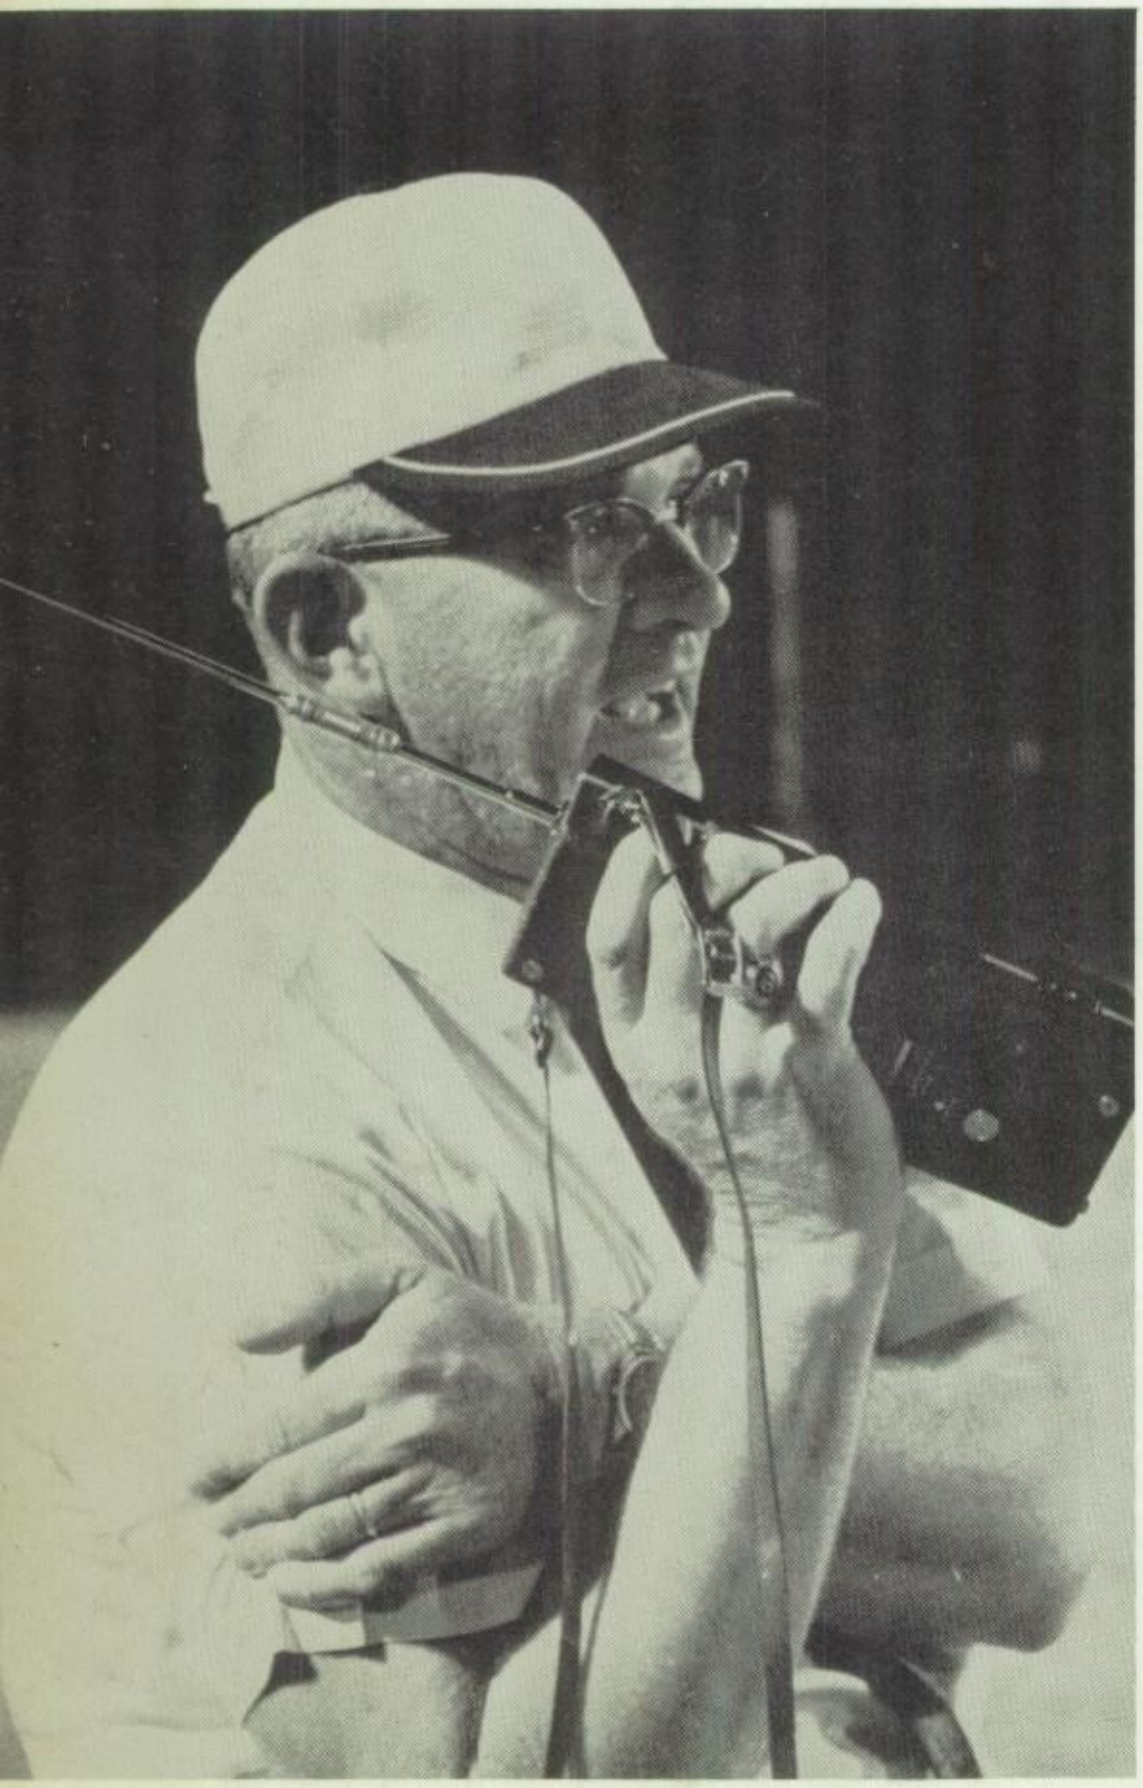
. . . remember wonderful teachers . . .

We of the 1965 Rebelaire Staff proudly dedicate this yearbook to Mrs. Betty Walker, our sponsor and journalism teacher. Mrs. Walker is a teacher of rare ability and a genuine Rebel. There never has been nor will there ever be another sponsor as great as our Mrs. Walker!

. . . teaching us teamwork . . .

Cooperation between the school and the city lend a needed measure of help to the serious business of Driver's Education.





The precision combination of modern communication and irreplaceable experience combine to lead a team.

Student drive is an important ingredient behind any school's efforts.

Rebels take a well-earned time out in th midst of a defensive struggle.

A tea in the Home Economic Department is attended by Principal S. R. Braley and Assistant Principal Wood Sers. Mrs. Minnie Jordan and Mrs. Marteal Webb chat with Mrs. Solon King and Mrs. Nadine Miller, while Home Ec. students serve.

Panoramic panic sweeps the pre-Ouachita pep rally as ecstatic students pour out hope and faith in the Rebel eleven.

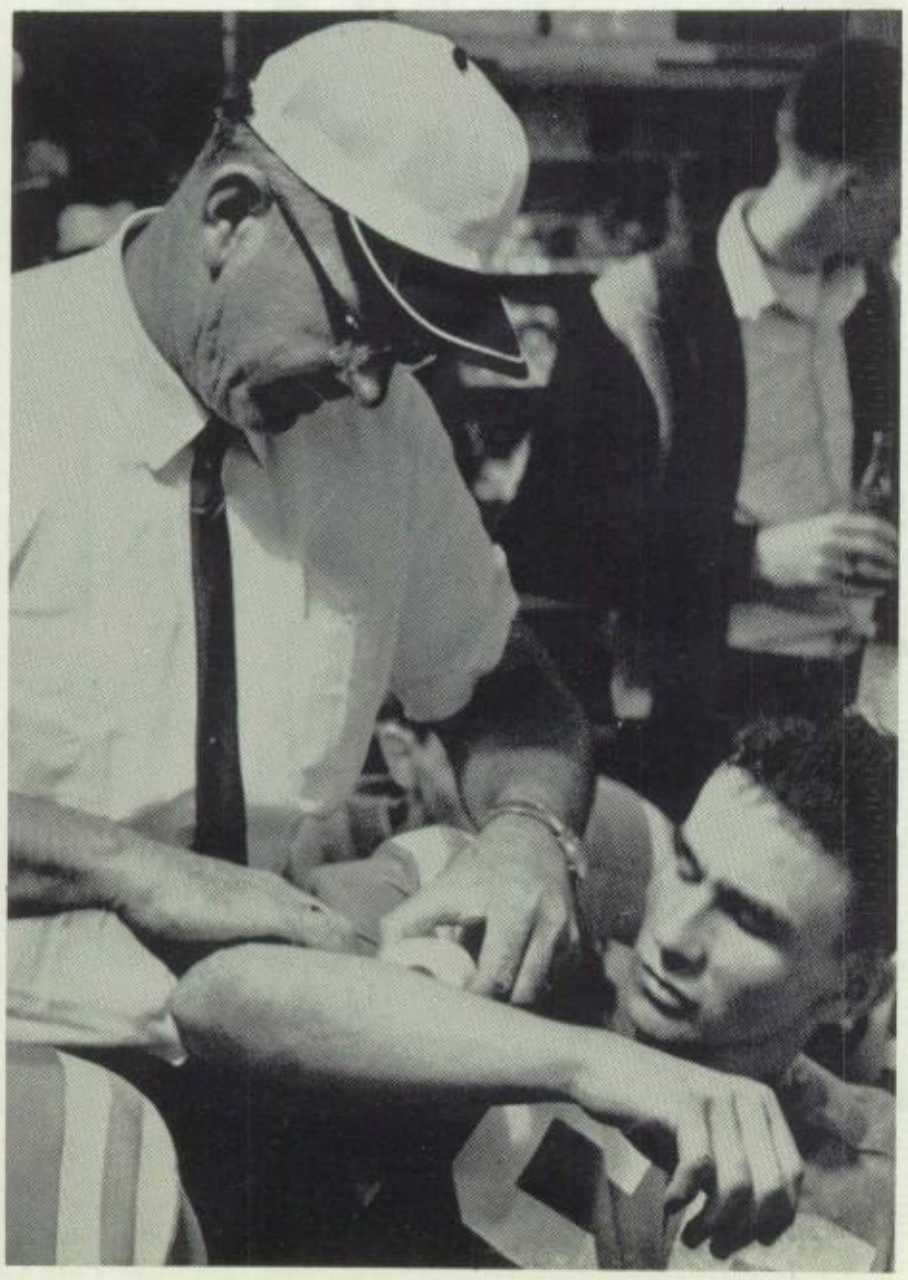
Mr. and Mrs. Ed Hislop, Sr., and Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Wall, School Board members during the first year of W. M.'s operation, were honored guests at the reunion of the class of '54 at which time plans were laid for an alumni association.

Administration and Faculty



The Administration and Faculty give us renewed hope and encouragement to conquer our goals and ideals. Patient and wise, they shield us from the bright sun as clouds shadow a troubled sea.

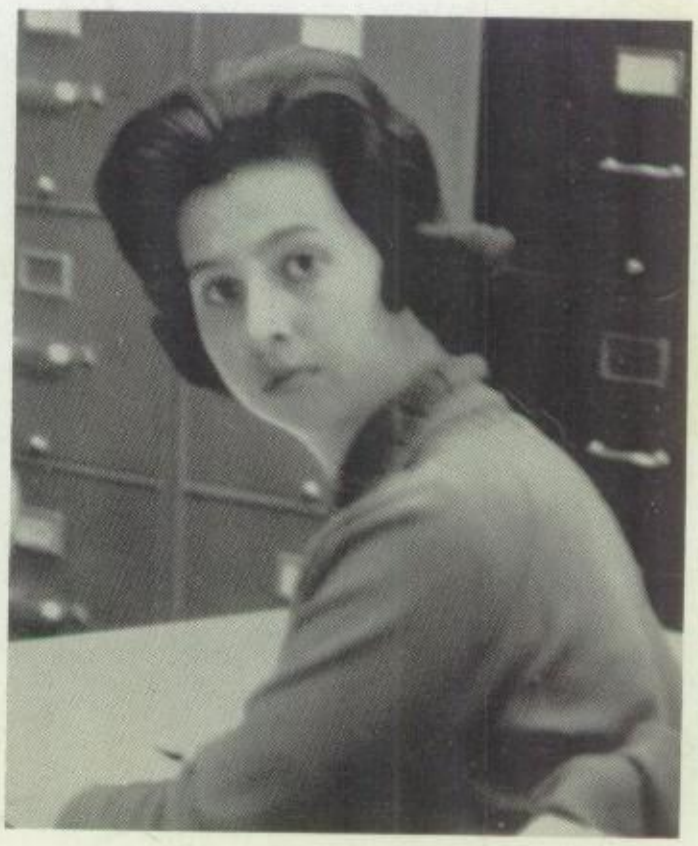
Seniors discuss the selection of graduation invitations.

Seniors study hard in economics class?

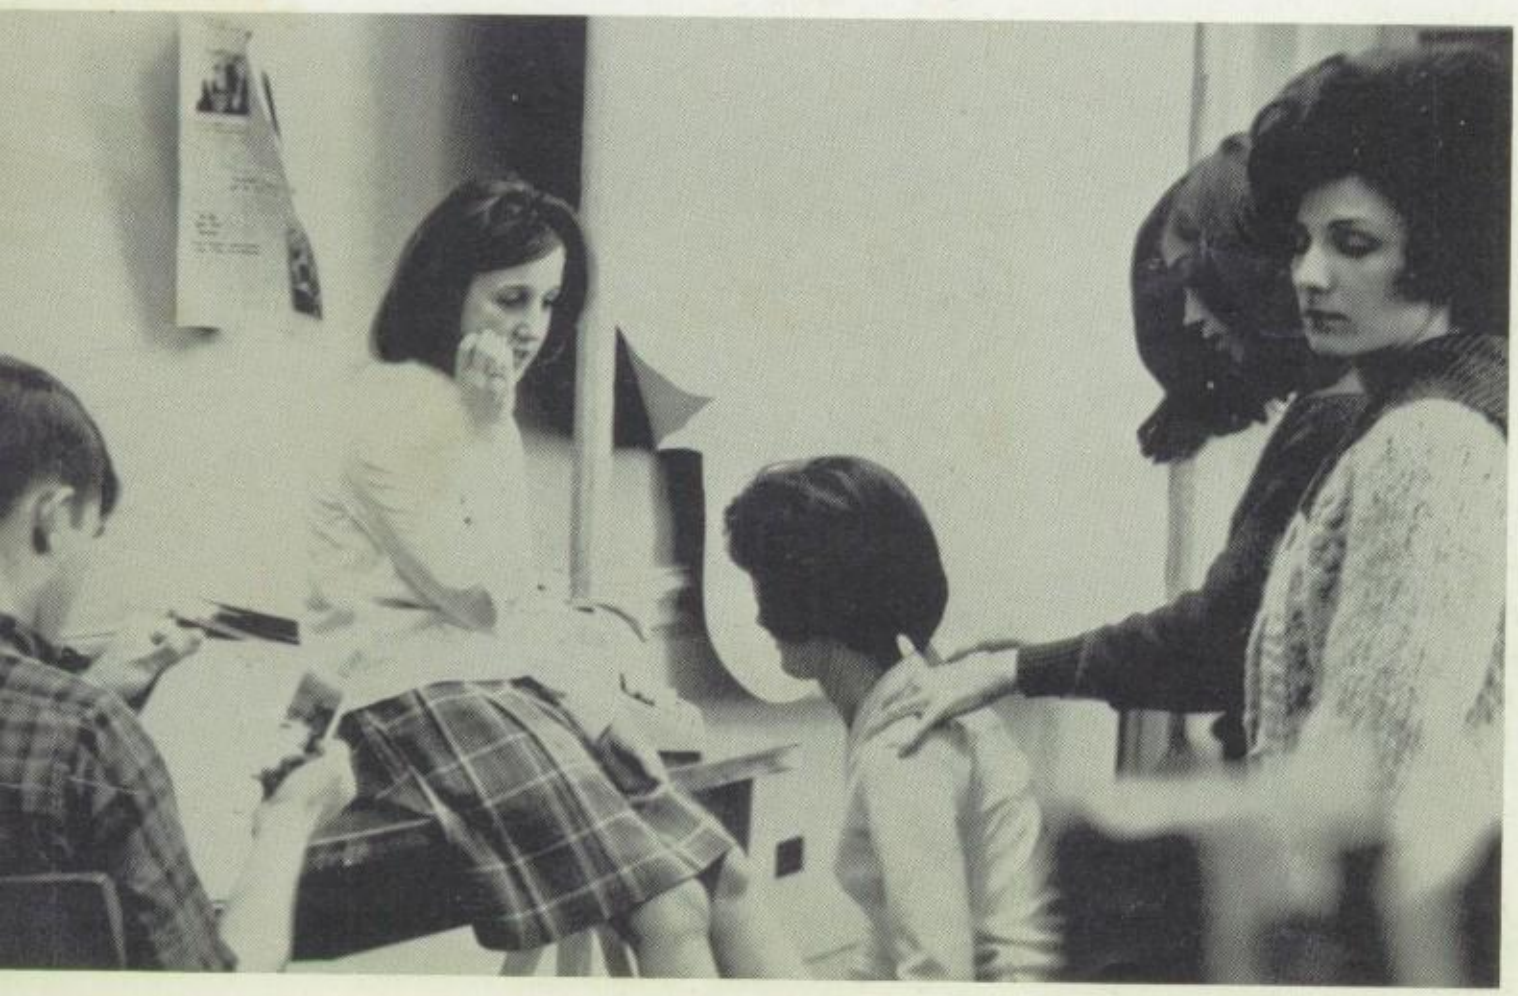
Measuring for caps and gowns means graduation is not far off.



Pat, does being treasurer of Rebelettes get you down?

"In your heart you know he's right."

First Period Publication is working to finish the yearbook.



You know you have to wait your turn, Pam.

The Year That

The theme, "'54 The Year That Was!", was depicted in graduation memoirs and souvenirs.

The Graduating Class of 1954 held its first reunion on November 7, 1964, at the Highland Park Country Club. Sixty class members along with their husbands and wives as well as the WMHS faculty attended. The ultimate goal of this reunion was to plan and organize a permanent alumni association.

The planning committee, composed of class members who still make their home in West Monro worked long and hard to make this first reunion a success.

Doydette,

We've been best friends for 6 years now and it has been a wounderful friendship. Sure we've had our ups & downs, our arguments and our quarrels (I remember one perticularly well), but we have had a true and lasting friendship. Now I'm getting married and will be moving away. May we'll get out of touch but I hope someday we will see each other again and can talk about our wonderful husbands (Jimmy and Reggie) and our wounderful families. Do you remember when I asked you to be my "Maid of Honor" at dream wedding? It seem remarkable how time has passed and since Junior High we've had wounderful things have happened for both of us. Did you dream that in five years you would be engaged and I'd be married? I hope I'll be as happy throughout your lives and I hope it won't be long before you'll will be planning for your wedding, too. And I also hope you and Jimmy will be as happy when you are making plans as Reggie and I are and I hope ya'll will be as Happy afterwards as I'm sure Reggie & I will be. I hope you'll always remember me and ours years in school together because I'm sure I'll never forget our friendship. Good Luck and keep in touch

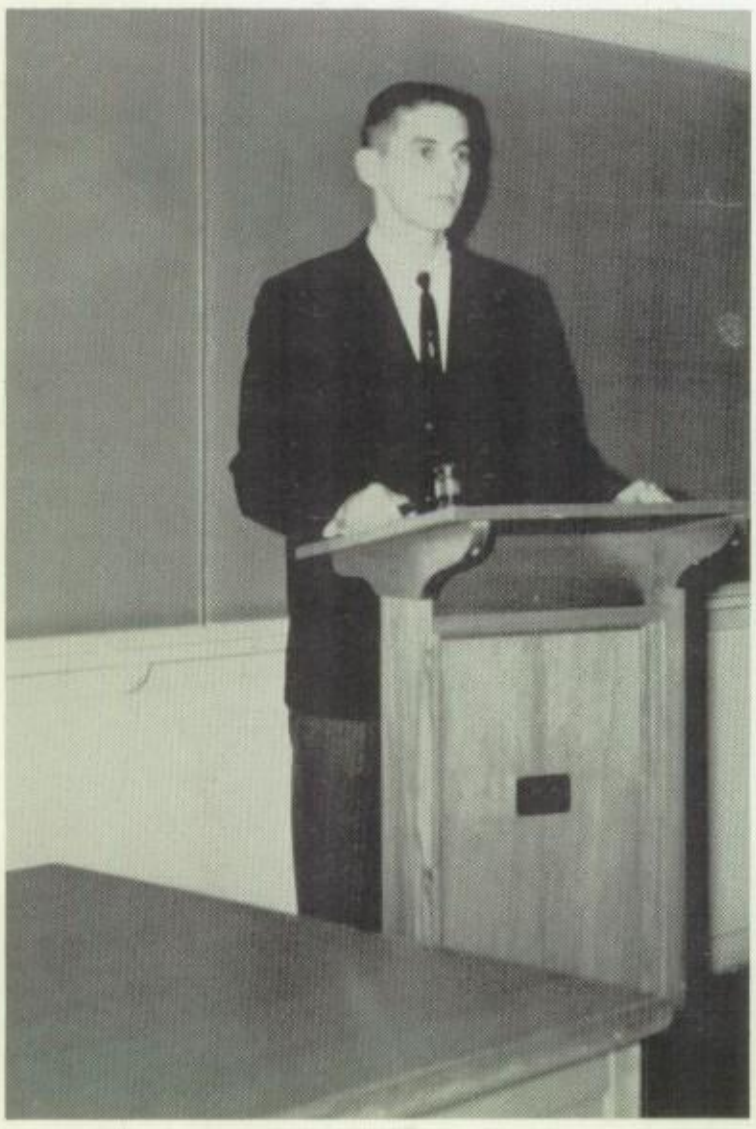
LEADERSHIP

Whitty Hood, Newspaper; Linda McDanell, Library; Nancy Jordan, Yearbook

Outstanding

Nancy Jordan's smiling face and friendly personality have guided her through a successful senior year at WMHS. Co-editor of the yearbook, reporter for the Rebelettes, and treasurer of the Honor Society are only a few of her accomplishments.

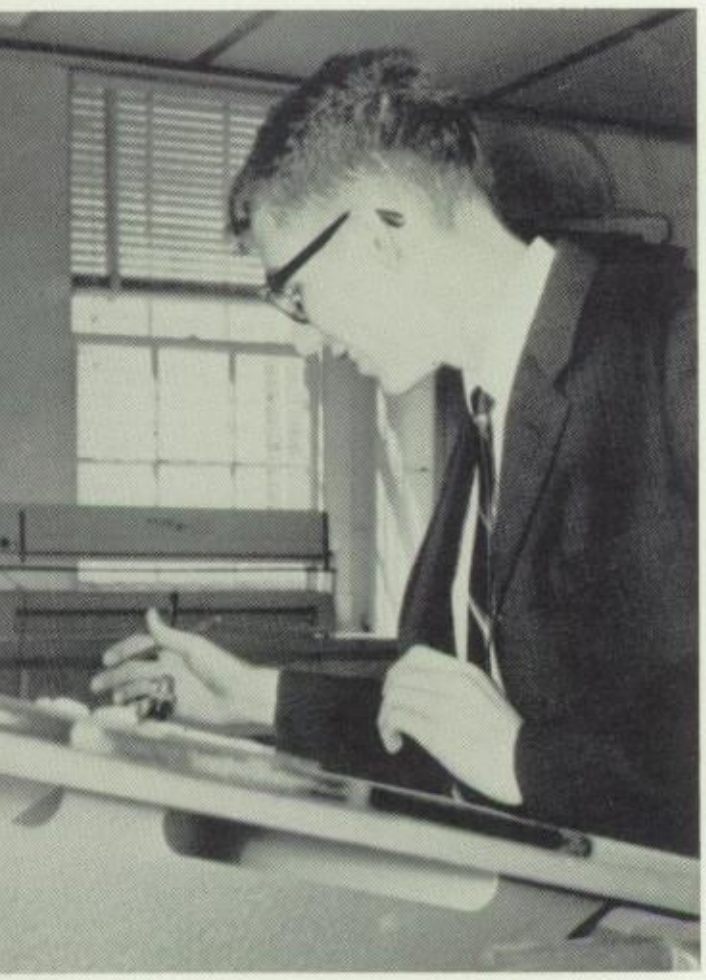
Friendly and courteous, Jimmy Aulds has accomplished much in his high school years. As a basketball letterman and president of the Senior class, Jimmy has set a shining example for his fellow students.



Football, grades, and photography are only a few of the things Terry Lewis has excelled in. His determination has enabled him to meet success in almost everything he has attempted.

Whitty Hood and Earl Casey served as co-editors of the Rebel Dispatch. With their talent for writing and flair for individuality these boys have successfully completed their senior year.

Seniors



A pleasing personality, subtle wit, and good sportsmanship characterize David Fragala. Through hard work and long practice, he has been an outstanding figure in track this year.

Sharon Harrelson and Sandy Barnes did much to support the Rebel teams this year—Sharon as a varsity cheerleader and Sandy as vice-president of the Rebelettes. Intelligent, friendly, and courteous, both of these girls will be remembered for many years at WMHS.

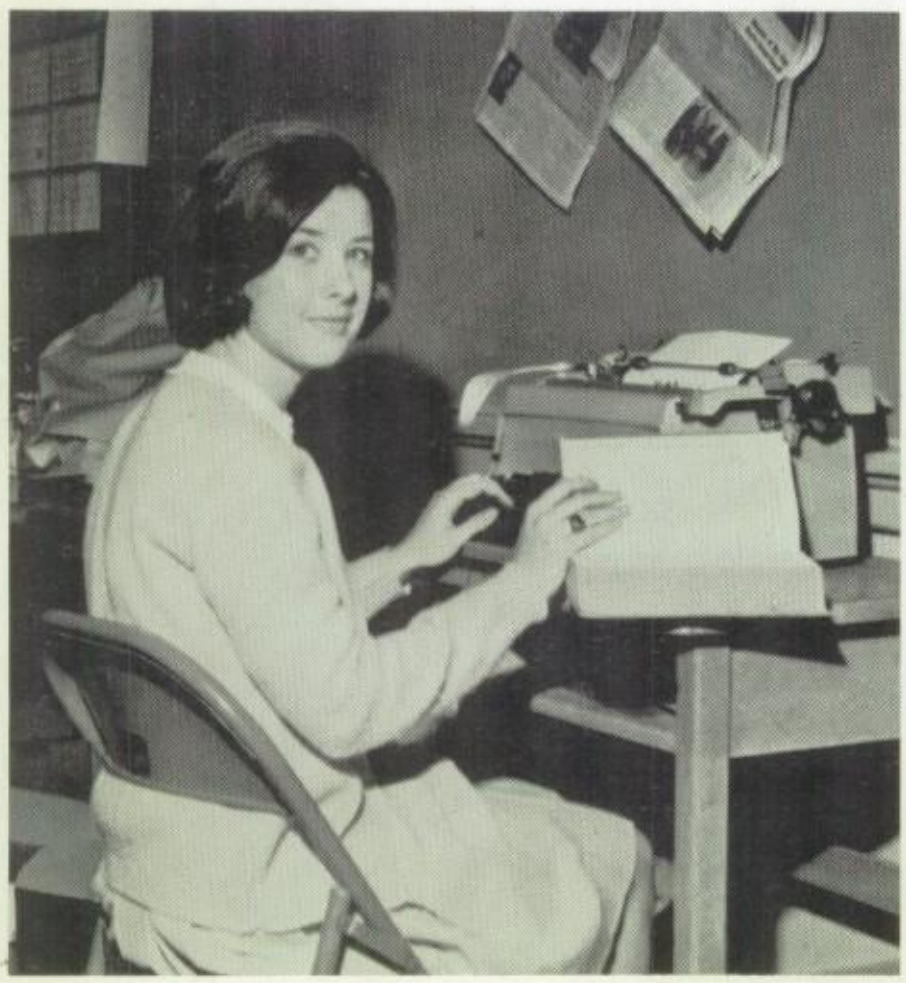
Sammy Brewster's leadership ability and willingness to work have been proven many time this year. He served as student council president, lettered in basketball, and received the DAR Good Citizenship award.

Billy White's well-modulated voice was heard every Wednesday afternoon on the WMHS radio program. A helper in the Journalism department and an honor student, Billy is truly an outstanding senior.

Outstanding

Jo Ann Raifford's rare artistic talent has enabled her to serve WMHS well. With her artwork she has contributed much to the 1965 Rebelaire.

Earl Casey's vivid imagination, originality, and lively humor have been revealed in the excellent writings he has contributed to the Rebel Dispatch and Quill and Scroll.



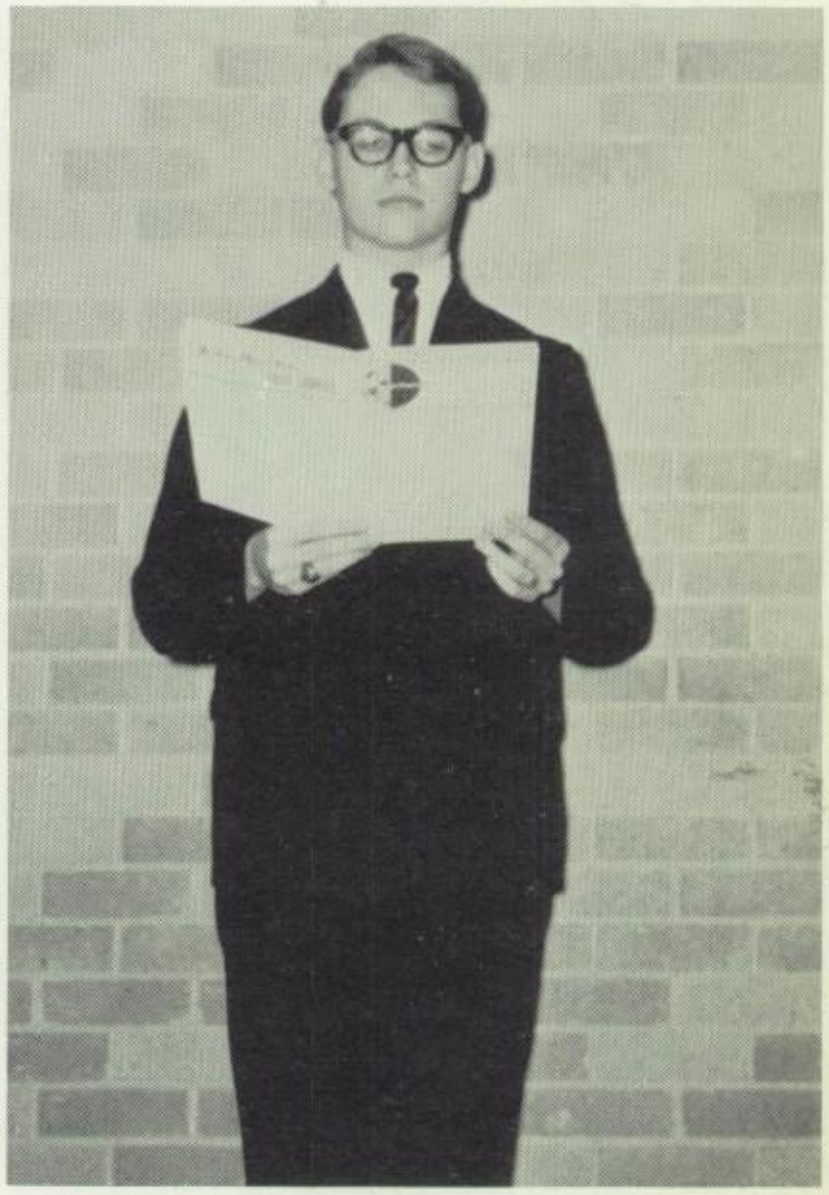
Alice Haynes's outgoing, friendly personality and writing ability have been combined in her work this year to produce much excellent material.

In the instrumental field of music, Ann Heard excells highly. Playing the clarinet, she has made All State Band and has won many superior ratings at festivals.

Seniors

Quiet and admirable, Leo Wyatt has mastered tne art of literary expression. His delightful wit has spiced every Rebel Dispatch Feature page.

Jon Hattaway's musical ability and deep voice have made him an asset to WMHS's choir and ensemble. He has also helped to plan many activities by serving as a choir officer.



Though short in stature Mary Sue Powers has given much to her fellow students at West Monroe. Her skill in creative art has been exhibited in the yearbook and Homecoming scenery.

ACTIVITIES

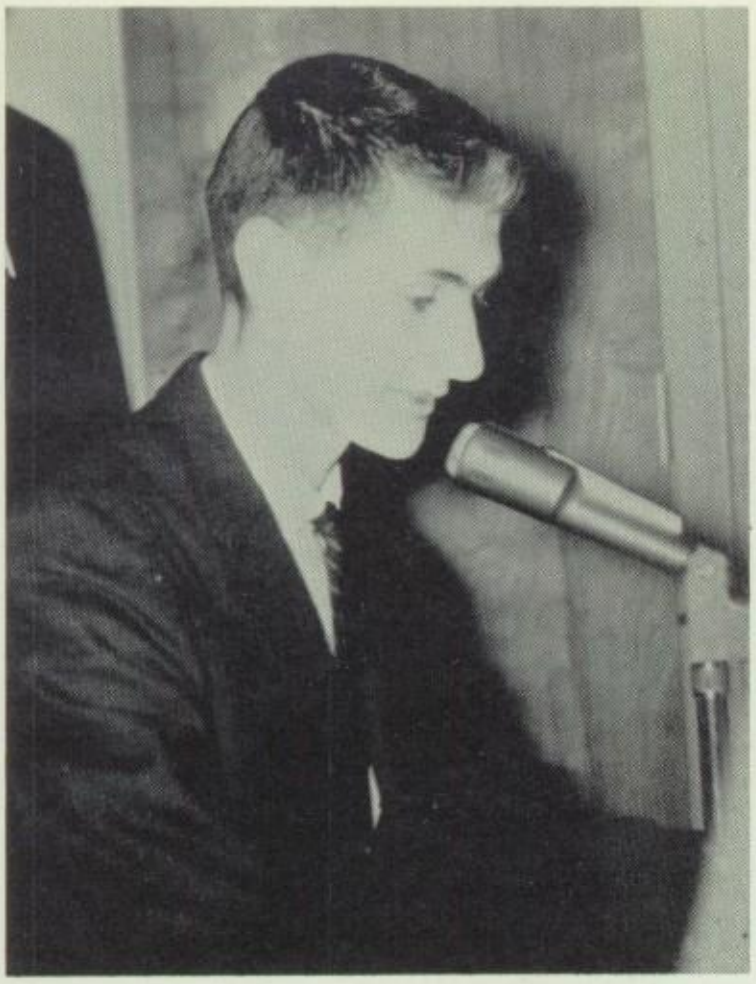
Student Council

Student Council members exercise responsibility to the classmates who elected them, by leading in all phases o academic and social life at West Monroe.



"May I have your attention, please!" With these words the voice of Sammy Brewster booms over the intercom while he performs one of his many duties as Student Council president.

Under the leadership of sponsors, Mrs. Marteal Webb and Nolan Harvey, the Student Council has successfully executed many activities such as Career Day, College Day and Twirp Week.

Mrs. Langridge, guidance counselor, hurriedly types forms used by Seniors during Senior Career Day, which was sponsored by the Student Council.

Attending Student Council Convention at Jacksonville, Florida, were Sammy Brewster, Clifton Dopson, and Barbie Spence, who met many council members from all over the South. Ray Crowell went with Sammy, and Barbie to the State Convention in Thibodeaux.

School Spirit, Our Motto . . .

Freshman and Sophomore Rebelettes combine their forces with the Junior and Senior Rebelettes to become one of the marching groups ever at West Monroe High; they performed many precision drills at half-time at many of the Rebel games.

Junior and Senior Rebelettes strive to maintain the B and C averages required of them if they are to remain an active member of this group.

Rebelette drummers Barbara Smith, Ann Works, Pam Kull, Priscilla Walker, and Sandy Lowry provide cadence for the many parades and half-time shows in which they participate.

Little Miss Susan Sers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wood Sers, served the Rebelettes as a very lovely mascot.

Homecoming

West Monroe's Rebels, despite a superior display of overland power, were unable to match the Bulldogs in the scoring column.

Jennings scored once in the first quarter, twice in the second, and once in the third; the Confederates, however, could score only once in the first, third, and fourth stanzas.

The Rebels used grinding "up the middle" offensive tactics to cop top honors in the first down, yds. rushing, and yds. passing departments. Ray Alexander and Danny Perkins bore the brunt of the West Monroe attack with 87 yds. and 110 yds. respectively.

The Bulldogs are halted by David Edgar (23) and Danny Perkins (22). Offering able assistance are, Whitty Hood (77) Terry Lewis (62) and Dub Hill, (in background.)

West Monroe matched the Knights tackle for tackle, block for block, and completely dominated the yards rushing statistics, until key injuries forced the Johnny Rebs to crumple under a powerful Woodlawn passing attack.

At the end of the second period, the Rebels were on an equal basis with the Woodlawn troupe and appeared to have things well in hand. However, from this point on the aforementioned injuries seemed to have a telling effect on the stout Rebel defense producing a weakness which the Knights were quick to exploit.

An unidentified Rebel smashes Jennings' hopes for a first quarter lead.

West Monroe dominated the first down department, but failed to measure up in total yardage gained.

The Rebs, playing without defensive standout Steve Randall, displayed their usual bulwark defense. However, despite hard running Bastrop backs John Bailey and Kary McIntyre, the Rams could push no farther than 13-0.

Perkins led the Rebel backfield with 46 yds.; Hood was outstanding in defensive work.

West Monroe filled the air with aerials to blast Ouachitas fired-up Lions 28-13. The Rebs scored three touchdowns in the first half and one in the second. Crain was the big man for the Rebels, receiving two TD passes from quarterback Ronnie Wiggins. Ouachita could muster only two touchdowns and one extra point to hand the Johnny Rebs their first District victory.

Rebel faithfulness endures until the final whistle.

Ray Alexander gave the Bearkats a tremendous display of Rebel overland might as he smashed his way for 78 yards rushing, one touchdown, and two extra points.

Not to be outdone, the husky Reb defense led by Larry Bowling and Peyton Wilson, stalemated Bossier's offensive attack.

Wiggins pulled the surprise play of the game, scampering 56 yards on an end run to ice the game 14-6.

West Monroe, crippled by injuries to key players such as Peyton Wilson, Steve Randall, Roy Crain and Danny Perkins, could at best muster only their characteristic stiff-necked defense.

Offensively they lacked the break-away speed of Perkins, and spectacular catches of Crain.

Alexander's punts had the Tigers at a disadvantage throughout the night; Neville could manage only two touchdowns in the entire contest.

The stiff Rebel defense forces a Tiger fumble.

Probaby the most thankless job in the world of Athletics is that of the manager.

While the football hero gallops down the field, and the basketball star swishes the net (both to the accompaniment of feminine cries), the manager slaves over the daily laundry with only the gurgling of his washing machine to console him.

The requirements for the job of manager are many: he must have the speed of a halfback, the stamina of a sprinter, and the knowledge of a surgeon.

He is the man behind the scenes in the world of sports. So to the managers of West Monroe High School, we offer a sincere "Thanks" for a job well done.

"In the Heart of the Twin Cities for the Hearts of the People"

Section editors, co-editors, Mrs. Walker, and Mr. Braley are shown with big smiles upon completion of the 1965 Rebelaire.

We the editors of the 1965 Rebelaire extend our thanks to the faculty, journalism classes, publications, students and the administration for their patience and help in the production of this pictorial history of West Monroe High School's twelfth year. We are grateful to our sponsor, Mrs. Betty Walker, for her expert guidance and reassurance.

Our work will be justly rewarded if each of you enjoy reading the Rebelaire as much as we enjoyed editing it.
